

CHURN DASH

Hall County Quilters Guild

JULY 2022

Some of you missed the picnic. That's too bad because it was a perfect day at a great spot. Eagle Ranch once again proved to be a great host. They even provided a guided tour.

In July, we will welcome Andi Barney. Some of you remember her from several years ago. She is a great speaker and an amazing woman. She will talk about machine maintenance. In addition to the informative lecture, Andi will provide a goody bag for all attendees AND one lucky attendee will win a certificate for a free sewing machine service. So be there in July. It will be fun.

In August Candace Hassen will talk about how she gets her inspiration to make her quilts. She will bring quilts and talk about her thoughts before and after the creation of the quilt.

I In September is our HCQG Rummage sale. Tables are $10.00 each. The sale items must be quilt or sewing related. We will also have a table sponsored by the Guild for items you want to donate. Talk to me about details and reserving your table. This is a great way to pass some of your treasures on to others to enjoy.

A new addition to our schedule is Cindy Williams, the Math Whisperer in January. She will present our program on Jan 2 and hold a workshop on Jan 3. You will not want to miss this one. Check her out on Facebook or Instagram. Make plans now to sign up for the workshop. We haven't had one in a while and this one will be the perfect workshop to get us back into regular workshops next year.

We had a wonderful picnic at Eagle Ranch in June. The director spoke with us and answered many questions we had about their amazing program. Following our lunch at the new pavilion, we were able to go on a tour of the facilities.

Our guild was well represented at the Quilt Fest in Pigeon Forge by our own Bobby Martin who had two quilts in the show. Then several of our members had quilts entered in the East Cobb show last week. My husband and I attended both shows and had a great time!!

Look forward to seeing each of you at our July meeting!!!!

There are no minutes this month because of the picnic.
20 guild members came to the picnic.

IVORY SPRING

Wendy Sheppard is originally from southeast Asia. She came to the United States for her tertiary education. With degrees in Chemical Engineering and years later, she now lives with her family in northern Virginia.

An entirely happenstance quilter in that she had never even touched a sewing machine until she was in her early 30's, she enjoys every aspect of quilting. She enjoys even more when she gets to share the joy of needle and thread with others. Her work has been published in many US quilting publications, as well as in Australia, UK and France.
